
1st International Symposium on Ecological Wisdom for Urban Sustainability: Doing real and permanent good in landscape and urban planning

October 17th-18th, 2014

Chongqing, China

PURPOSE

The journal Landscape and Urban Planning (LAND), in collaboration with several international institutions, will host an international symposium entitled Doing real and permanent good in landscape and urban planning: Ecological wisdom for urban sustainability on October 17-19, 2014 at the city of Chongqing, China. The symposium provides an international forum for transgenerational, transphilosophical, and transdisciplinary explorations; and will feature paper presentations which will later be considered for inclusion in a special 2015 LAND issue under the same theme.

The goals for the symposium and the special issue are twofold: (1) to foster scholarship on the acquisition of ecological wisdom and its applications to the contemporary practice of landscape and urban planning; and (2) to facilitate international collaborations on ecological wisdom research.
